Hansen back in motion with tour

Rick Hansen's 25th anniversary Man in Motion cross-Canada relay launches Aug. 24 in Cape Spear, N.L. Relay finishes in Vancouver on May 22, 2012 Participants, chosen in an online contest this spring, will travel 250 metres and hand off a medal designed by the Royal Canadian Mint

A quarter century after Man in Motion Rick Hansen rolled out his round-the-world tour for spinal cord research, Canadians are being challenged to keep up the fight.

Hansen announced yesterday plans for a 7,000-person, nine-month cross-Canada relay that will retrace the Canadian segment of his original tour, from Newfoundland to Vancouver.

"The tour was over, but the cure and accessible communities had just begun," Hansen, now 53, reflected in an interview. "The challenge I gave to people at B.C. Place, when there was 50,000 people at the end, was, 'I've started this movement, now it's your turn.'"

The relay is meant to spur a new generation toward building accessible communities and finding a cure for spinal cord injuries.

Student hacked with machete

A Korean exchange student was attacked with a machete while waiting for a bus with friends at Lonsdale Quay at around midnight on Friday.

The young man and his friend were approached by a group of three armed teens who demanded the students' wallets and phones.

According to RCMP, one of the youths then struck the victim in the head with such force that the machete penetrated five millimetres into his skull.

The assailants fled, and three suspects were arrested over four days.

The student received seven stitches and 18 staples but is expected to recover. NATALIE KAUR JOHAL

Man in custody over shed burning

A 27-year-old Vancouver man appeared in court yesterday morning, charged with attempted murder, after he allegedly locked another man inside a shed outside a home in Southeast Vancouver and lit it on fire.

Neighbours freed the 56-year-old victim before police arrived.

The incident occurred just before midnight on Monday in the 3300 Block of Cherry Street. The shed sustained minor damage.

Jeffrey Borrego Santonill is also charged with arson. METRO

Honouring Egypt's fight

After 8 straight days of protest, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak announced he won't run in next election ◐ Vancouver's Egyptian community acknowledges real change will be slow and hard-fought

NATALIE KAUR JOHAL
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

On the same day the "march of a million people" demonstration flooded Cairo's Tahrir Square, members of Vancouver's Egyptian Canadian Cultural Society held a vigil to honour those killed in the turbulent Egyptian uprising.

The event was held in front of the Vancouver Art Gallery, where a crowd of about 50 gathered in support of the Egyptian people.

It was also a pro-democracy rally that paid tribute to those who have fought to end oppression under President Hosni Mubarak, who said yesterday he will not run in the country's September election.

For Mohamed Zaki, yesterday's concession is a sign of progress, not victory. He feels Egypt is still far from real democracy.

"Nothing will change simply by replacing a leader. The entire system has to change, and neighbouring countries will have to push for that change," he added.

Organizers said they have felt a strong sense of support, enthusiasm and solidarity in Vancouver. At the same time, however, many said they felt the Canadian government has been passive, at best, with respect to the revolt.

"The Harper government has failed to condemn the dictatorship or call for a fair multiparty election," said Derrick O'Keefe, an organizer with Vancouver's StopWar Coalition. "They've been duplicitous in their handling of Egypt."

Finding solution for homelessness an uphill battle

Council told 450 rental units needed to house city's homeless by 2015 Funding greatest challenge

MATT KIELTYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

Vancouver Mayor Gregor Robertson says it's time for the city to roll up its sleeves if it plans to end street homelessness by 2015.

The pledge to eliminate homelessness was Robertson's top promise to voters when he took over city hall, but an update delivered to council yesterday was a mixed bag.

City manager Penny Ballem said just 450 units of supportive housing needs to go online by 2015 to end street homelessness, but the city has struggled to scrounge up federal and provincial support.

METRO FILE

▶ Mayor Gregor Robertson

"The challenges are not getting any easier," said Ballem. "We will not solve street homelessness unless we can bring on 450 units of supportive housing."

And that's just the bare minimum.

If the city really wants to stabilize the situation, it needs 1,200 new units by 2020, at the projected cost of $240 million (not including the cost of land).

Robertson called for the city to redouble its efforts to find sites for the housing.

"We need to make heaven and earth move to make that land available," he said. "That's the next step for council."

A new updated homelessness action plan is being drafted by city staff and will be presented in April.

Mubarak will step down when his term ends

His announcement immediately derided by protesters in Egypt

AMR NABIL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Hosni Mubarak

President Hosni Mubarak defied a quarter-million protesters demanding he step down immediately, announcing yesterday he would serve out the last months of his term and "die on Egyptian soil." He promised not to seek re-election, but that did not calm public fury as clashes erupted between his opponents and supporters.

The protesters, whose numbers multiplied more than tenfold in a single day yesterday for their biggest rally yet, have insisted they will not end their unprecedented week-old wave of unrest until their ruler for nearly three decades goes.

Mubarak's halfway concession — an end to his rule seven months down the road — threatened to inflame frustration and anger among protesters, who have been peaceful in recent days. In the Mediterranean city of Alexandria, clashes erupted between several hundred protesters and government supporters soon afterward, according to footage by Al-Jazeera television. Mubarak's halfway concession threatened to inflame frustration and anger among protesters, who have been peaceful in recent days but have made clear they will not end their unprecedented week-old wave of demonstrations until he is out.

Repercussions

- Jordan's King Abdullah II fired his government yesterday in the face of smaller street protests, named an ex-prime minister to form a new cabinet and ordered him to launch political reforms.
- The Palestinian cabinet in the West Bank said it would hold long-promised municipal elections.

Many Canadians staying back in Egypt

Canadians in Egypt seem to want a date with history rather than an airlift to safety.

There was surprisingly low demand for seats on the three flights chartered by the federal government to evacuate Canadians from Cairo this week.

Of the more than 1,000 Canadians in Egypt contacted by the Foreign Affairs Department in a round of telephone calls Monday, only 171 were interested in fleeing, an official said.

There are an estimated 6,500 Canadians in Egypt, including 1,365 registered with the Canadian Embassy.

Low demand

- Half empty A third, specially chartered flight left Cairo yesterday, with less than half the seats occupied by Canadians.
- Chartered Despite the low demand for flights, Ottawa chartered two more airliners to bring Canadians home from Egypt yesterday.

In all, 214 Canadians were flown to safety Monday on two Canadian government flights.

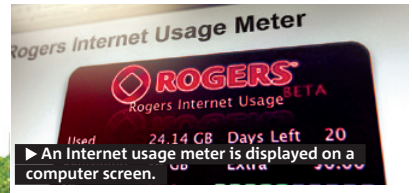
Harper's CRTC response is 140 characters

CRTC ruling will lead to lower download limits and higher rates: Critics ● New rules to take affect March 1

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS



▶ An Internet usage meter is displayed on a computer screen.

A recent ruling that changes how the country's largest Internet service providers charge their customers is raising hackles in the online community amid fear it could lead to higher bills for heavy users.

Joining that chorus of concern yesterday was none other than Prime Minister Stephen Harper — on Twitter, no less.

As Internet use soars, the burgeoning popularity of downloading — a huge number of games, music and movies are available over the Internet these days — brings with it the concern that Canadians might be far heavier users than they realize.

They're not the only ones worried about the move. Harper used Twitter to echo the concerns expressed earlier by Industry Minister Tony Clement.

"We're very concerned about CRTC's decision on usage-based billing and its impact on consumers," Harper tweeted. "I've asked for a review of the decision."

ONLY THE SHADOW KNOWS THE WEATHER

Just sayin'

PAUL SULLIVAN

Hey, it's Groundhog Day today!

Here's the deal. If the groundhog sticks his nose out of his burrow this morning and sees his shadow, for some reason that means six more weeks of winter, and he hurries back into his burrow and tweets all his woodland buddies: "It's too freaking cold out there. High pressure ridge. Stay inside. Avoid large raptors. Brrr. @Rodent."

If, on the other hand, there's no shadow, it's safe to come out since spring is just around the corner. Righhht.

The groundhog first dabbled in meteorology in 1887 in Pennsylvania with Punxsutawney Phil and his various descendents (groundhogs don't live very long), but not to be outdone, Canada has its own groundhog, Wiarton Willie, who's been doing the same trick for 55 years. And Gaspé even has its own groundhog, fred la marmotte, so the weather is badly predicted in both official languages.

"... and he hurries back into his burrow and tweets all his woodland buddies ..."

It doesn't matter that the fat little critter can't predict the weather, or anything else for that matter (uh, he's a rodent?), because it's a tradition. And you don't mess with tradition, no matter how dopey. It has its roots in Candlemas, which is the midpoint between the winter solstice and the spring equinox, as good a time as any for an outbreak of foolishness.

And it doesn't get any dopier than Groundhog Day. Same time every year, Feb. 2, just when winter starts to drag a little (except here on the West Coast, when it's time for the snowdrops and crocuses to start peeking their heads above the ground ... bwahah-ha), the media on both sides of the border lose their minds for a day and run front page photos of Fat Phil and Wide Willie as they "predict" the weather.

It's probably the groundhog equivalent of winning the lottery: Free snacks, although you might wish for a time before the paparazzi when life was simple — just a warm hole in the ground, a tasty stolen turnip, snuggling up to your favourite ground, uh, sow.

Being a rodent and a practical mammal, you're probably wondering what the fuss is all about. I mean, what is it with the animal prediction racket? Look at Paul the Octopus. He's got his own memorial in Germany for accurately predicting soccer's World Cup results.

Which is more than you can say about the groundhog. The shocking truth is that since 1988, Phil has been "wrong" 13 times and "right" only 10. With a record like that, he could be a broker.

Letters & Tweets

We asked: Who is today's most overrated band or singer?

@arnemitchell: AC/DC most overrated hands down.
@WillSturdy: Kings Of Leon, easily. Great band that hasn't done anything new except complain about how great they are.
@PXAbstraction: Nickelback without a doubt. Generic, bland, unoriginal, commercial, yet they think they are geniuses.
@sarb28: Kiss. All their songs suck.
@sergio115: Most overrated solo artist ... Ke$ha, Katy Perry, Justin Bieber. Pretty much all the pop out there. Where's the talent?!?
@lauraaeliz: def gotta say justin bieber ... I'm scared to see the streets of T.O. today. Maybe the storm will wipe out all the fans.
@dpsouthcalgary: Gotta be Kanye West.
@jla30: Where do I start?? Bieber, Drake, Ke$ha, Rihanna, Usher, Eminem, Nickelback ...
@dallasthumper: Bono or Sting — dear God they need to learn how to sing.
@sprogsca: Nickelback!!!! They suck. And then ABBA.
@dubstf: Taylor Swift. Kanye was so right! Her squinty face & annoying teenage angsty songs are BS.
@riteandan: Coldplay, Nickelback, Justin Bieber, WAY too MANY to name here!
@mqasim13: Justin Bieber, nothing more needs to be said.

Drake finding lots of Juno award love

Juno host Drake leads with six nods heading into this year's show
Bieber up for Artist of the Year

It'll be all about Drake at this year's Juno Awards.

The 24-year-old Toronto rapper is hosting the Mar. 27 bash and is also the leading nominee.

He's up for six trophies: album of the year, artist of the year, songwriter of the year, single of the year, rap recording of the year and the Juno fan choice award.

Teen phenom Justin Bieber, who grew up in Stratford, Ont., also scored multiple nominations, as did Montreal's Arcade Fire.

Drake, Bieber and Arcade Fire are also up for prizes at the Grammy Awards later this month.

All three received Juno nominations for album of the year. Rounding out that category is Hedley and country singer Johnny Reid.

Bieber, who was in Toronto yesterday promoting a new 3D documentary about his career, also got Juno nods for artist of the year and pop album of the year.

Artists scheduled to perform at the Junos include Arcade Fire, Broken Social Scene and Hedley.

The Junos are returning to Toronto to mark their 40th anniversary.

Shania Twain is set to be inducted into the Canadian Music Hall of Fame at the ceremony, and legendary rocker Neil Young will be recognized for his humanitarian work.

Richards bars ex-husband Charlie Sheen from seeing their daughters He asked porn star to babysit kids

Denise Richards has reportedly reached the breaking point when it comes to ex-husband Charlie Sheen and has barred him from seeing their daughters until he completes rehab, according to Popeater.

What did it was apparently porn star Kacey Jordan’s admission on Good Morning America that Sheen asked her to babysit his kids. “Denise has had enough,” a source says. “All this time she has been trying to protect Charlie in the eyes of his daughters, limiting what they know about his partying ways, but now she knows it’s the girls that need protecting, not Charlie.” METRO

Discover Florida's best kept secret

Locals have kept Emerald Coast under wraps for years Surf town U.S.A. meets New England in these colourful beachside communities

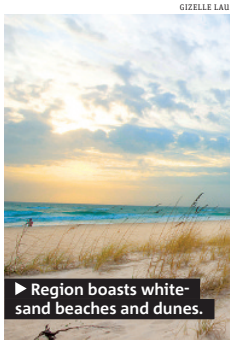
GIZELLE LAU
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

One of Florida's hidden gems is far from the bright lights of Miami's South Beach or the amusement park wonderland of Orlando.

Here, wispy sand dunes protect the white shores that are so white that, at a glance, you could swear you're looking at mounds of snow — that is, until you remind yourself that you're in Florida.

Welcome to the beaches of the Emerald Coast in northwest Florida — a region made up of several beachside destinations right on the Gulf Coast that local Florida natives have tried to keep under wraps for decades. They may have gotten away with it, too — until the Obama's visited the region's Panama City Beach in August and the tourism board's website received 8 billion views within 36 hours.

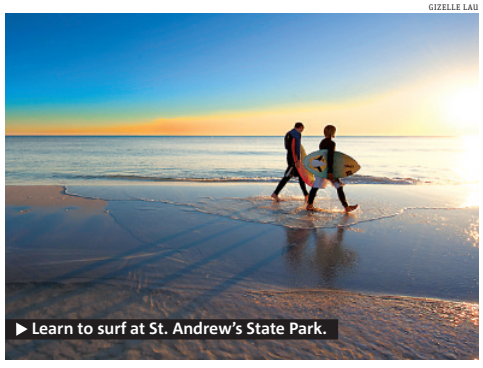
GIZELLE LAU



▶ Region boasts white-sand beaches and dunes.

From Panama City to the beaches of Fort Walton, Destin and Pensacola, the atmosphere is "white-picket fence" meets "surf town U.S.A." with a New England passion for fresh seafood, finished with a unique twist of southern hospitality.

GIZELLE LAU



▶ Learn to surf at St. Andrew's State Park.

Vacation like the Obamas in Panama City Beach by staying at the Bay Point Marriott Golf Resort & Spa. Discover the outlet shops at Pier Park, try your hand at surfing at St. Andrew's State Park, and head to Firefly restaurant for the beach's best She Crab Soup with a side of fried Apalachicola Oysters.

Don't miss the town of Seaside where the Truman Show was filmed — its picturesque trailers selling cupcakes, specialty grilled cheese sandwiches and organic shakes — or Grayton Beach State Park where you can go for eco tours, hikes through sand dunes or YOLO boarding (stand-up paddle boarding that originated in this area).

If you're into fishing, then Destin is the place for you. Known as the "world's luckiest fishing village," Destin has the largest charter fishing fleet in all of Florida.

Here, you can fish for grouper, tuna, marlin or red snapper in the morning and take your catch to Destin's Fisherman's Wharf Seafood House where it will be grilled, broiled or blackened for lunch.

Pensacola is the historic capital of the region where you can enjoy the beach and explore the sights. Discover historical Fort Barrancas built in 1797 and the National Naval Aviation Museum's collection of aircraft.

Forget tacos

You may think you know everything about Mexican food, but there's more to it than beans and tequila shots
Real Mexican cuisine is exotic and varied

ROMINA MCGUINNESS
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Your Friday-night Mexican — a feast of super-size burritos and cheesy nachos, washed down with Coronas — might make you feel like you're transported to Mexico with every morsel. But there's a lot more to this intriguing cuisine.

Lunch is a hearty meal that can include tortillas, soups (black bean, pumpkin or chicken), rice and meat. Dinner is generally a lighter version of lunch.

You'll find authentic tortillas, quesadillas and tacos on street food stands, stuffed with fresh tomatoes, peppers, white cheese and shredded meats and topped with avocado, pumpkin seeds, coriander and spicy sauces.

Mexicans also enjoy some much-loved delicacies. You can sink your teeth into a crunchy Maguey worm, a speciality throughout the states of Mexico, Hidalgo and Oaxaca. The worms are wrapped in a mixiote, a fleshy maguey leaf, and cooked in a hot pan until they are crispy and golden.

Chef Bob Blumer is a glutton for the gastro

The foodie's new cookbook offers savoury dishes and epic stories

EMILY RICHARDS
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

Bob Blumer is a name that many Canadians know as a fun-loving foodie who is most at home with his surreal cooking.

But he is also a respected chef who brings out the flavours of food and creativity in everything he makes.

Before diving into culinary arts, Blumer was a musician who was concerned with feeding himself and his friends.

He was always known for making the best meals, which meant he didn't have to weave his way through busy traffic to visit friends.

Instead, guests would bring food items with a bottle of wine, and it was a relaxed and fun atmosphere that Blumer continues to share with his loyal readers, viewers and friends.

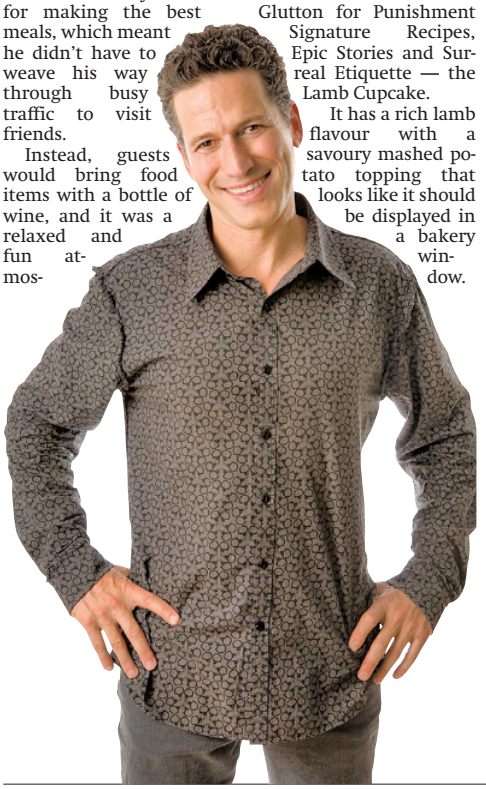
"I think you elevate your quality of life through food," he says.

These days, it's chefs with whom Blumer has worked in a variety of settings who respect his cooking skills and creativity.

A self-taught chef, he has a unique way of combining bold flavours to produce tasty food that is whimsical in presentation.

An example is one of Blumer's favourite recipes from his latest cookbook Glutton for Punishment Signature Recipes, Epic Stories and Surreal Etiquette — the Lamb Cupcake.

It has a rich lamb flavour with a savoury mashed potato topping that looks like it should be displayed in a bakery window.



It is this type of recipe that showcases Blumer's amazing abilities and how he is able to use them to his advantage.

Aside from his latest book, Blumer has recently taken a break from his travels to spend some time at home.

But the break doesn't mean he's not keeping busy.

He enjoys cycling, and his 25-kilometre route through the Hollywood Hills keeps him fit and busy.

Blumer also has a new addition to his humble abode — a chicken coupe! With four chickens, Blumer is making sure they have a happy setting in which to produce eggs for the chef to enjoy and to help to keep him coming up with new ideas for recipes.

"I never want to leave my job. I'm not gonna retire anytime soon," laughs Blumer.

Minute with Bob

What is your drink of choice when cooking?
I'm a wine drinker and I give equal opportunity to white and red wines.

If you could go spatula-to-spatula with any chef, who would it be?
Bobby Flay and it would have to be a cooking triathlon.

If you could cook a meal for anyone, dead or alive, who would it be and what would you make?
Salvador Dali and Rene Magritte and it would have to be a surreal meal from the many surreal dishes in my book.

What was the first cookbook you ever purchased?
I actually wrote my first cookbook before I purchased one.

Lamb Cupcakes

Preparation:

1. Season lamb with salt and pepper and coat in flour. In a skillet, heat 3 tbsp (45 mL) of the oil over medium high heat; add lamb shanks and sear, about two minutes per side. Move to roasting pan and wipe out skillet.
2. Add 2 tbsp (30 mL) of oil to pan and heat over medium heat. Sauté one of the onions, carrots and celery and half of garlic until just beginning to brown. Add chicken stock, stirring and bring to the boil. Pour over lamb and add wine. Sprinkle with half of the rosemary and thyme. Cover with foil and braise in 300 F (160 C) oven for 3 1/2 hours, uncover and cook until lamb is browned and falling off the bone tender, about 30 minutes. Remove lamb and pull meat off the bones; reserve meat. Strain braising juices and separate fat from juices.
3. Transfer juice to a pot and simmer and reduce by three quarters until it is a thick demi-glaze; set aside.
4. Steam potatoes over boiling water until very tender, 15 minutes. Using a ricer, mash potatoes. In heatproof bowl, blend potatoes with cream, butter, and season with salt. Using fine side of a grater; grate 2 tbsp (30 mL) of the beet. Set aside.
5. In a skillet, heat 2 tbsp (30 mL) of oil over medium heat and caramelize remaining chopped onion and garlic until golden brown; set aside.
6. Stem remaining rosemary and thyme; chop finely. In bowl, mix lamb meat, 1/3 cup (75 mL) of the demi glaze, onion mixture, bread crumbs, eggs and rosemary and thyme.
7. Line muffin tin with 8 paper liners. With cooking spray, spray interior of liners. Spoon lamb mixture into liners. Bake on 300 F (160 C) until cakes are set, yet moist, about 14 minutes.
8. Reheat potatoes by covering bowl with aluminum foil and placing over pot of boiling water for 5 minutes. When hot, blend in grated beet until pink. Use a piping bag to ice the lamb cupcakes with the potato mixture. Serve.

So, who are you?

Winging a job interview when you're looking for work could cost you a job Doing the same as the interviewer could cost you the job you have

DREW HINSHAW
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Job interviewers who freestyle their 20-minute chat with a prospective employee throw the company dice – plus a year's salary and benefits – at the most confident, more often than capable candidate, hiring experts warn. Worse, they risk vamping their way into a courthouse drama.

"You could ask an innocent question and end up with a lawsuit."

President Laura DeCarlo of Career Directors International cautions, "Because of so many legal issues, someone who has liability should probably look at becoming involved in a human resource organization like the Society for Human Resource Management."

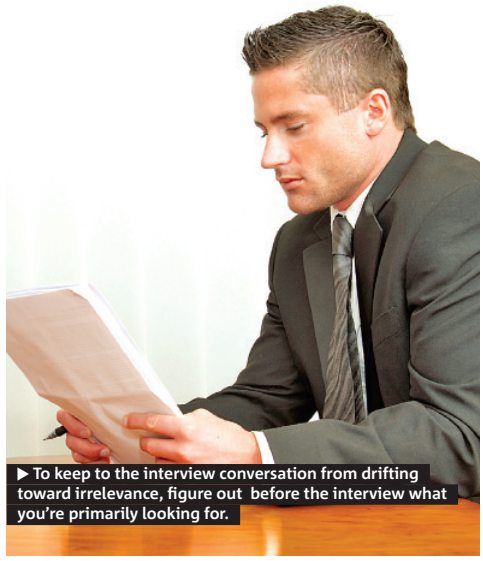
Aside from a professional membership card, they should, at the very least, "have a plan."

"Don't go in there thinking 'I'm just going to ask them to tell me about themselves,'" she stresses. "Have about 30 questions."

If you prep your interview like a police investigation – full of confrontational, tightly-focused questions – you could provoke nothing but awkward, stilted answers.

The jobseeker on the other end of the table ought to be made comfortable, Boston-based career coach Leenie Glickman notes – and if you really want to fathom the person you might be working alongside, you'd do better to spark a naturalistic conversation than a narrow pop quiz.

"All of your questions should be open," she suggests. "Like 'Tell me about, tell me about, tell be about."



▶ To keep to the interview conversation from drifting toward irrelevance, figure out before the interview what you're primarily looking for.

Brands make it personal

BOOK REVIEW

When it comes to marketing, the concept of "brand" was a pretty consistent entity, in that it was the product of the company that owned and produced it. The look, feel and quality were wholly controlled by the owner, and if that brand was managed properly, huge profits could be reaped.

That of course is the old school reality.

Fast forward to 2011, and authors Sean Moffit and Mike Dover describe the new reality of brands in their book Wikibrands. According to Moffit and Dover, "The Litmus test for a thriving business in this market place is 'Does your brand deliver genuine participation.'"

With media fragmentation and the ever expanding catalogue of channels, digital being the key culprit, the former business approach of utilizing Mass Advertising to build a brand is now defunct.

Chances are, a brand born today could not achieve the same results without being put in the hands of its users, and modeled and evolved based on customer feedback and interaction... Facebook is a case in point.

Moffit and Dover don't have to stretch too far to demonstrate how effective this approach is, pointing out how companies like Starbucks who have created dedicated platforms for their customers to contribute.

Wikibrands has some tremendous research behind it, making this book more than just a tomb of interesting case studies, but a call to action.

PRIVACY PAINS

Workplace Law

DANIEL LUBLIN
IS AN EMPLOYMENT LAWYER WITH WHITTEN & LUBLIN LLP.
DAN@CANADAEMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM

Many employees believe that they have an absolute right to privacy while at work. They are wrong.

Today, employees freely use technology at work without appreciating that they may be providing their employers access to their own private data. Trusting that employers will refrain from monitoring readily available private information is reckless.

The issue of privacy rights in the workplace is a developing area of Canadian law. Recent cases suggest that employees are entitled to have some expectation to privacy at work; however, the extent of these privacy rights remains blurred.

In one case, the court found that the installation of a "secret camera" in an employee's office was an invasion of her privacy. The court found that the employer's conduct amounted to a breach of contract, justifying the employee's resignation. It then awarded her wrongful dismissal damages. However, the court sent the following warning: had a plausible explanation been provided for the "secret camera", the intrusion may have been acceptable.

Employees do have privacy rights at work. However, these rights must be balanced against employers' legal and business interests to monitor its workplace. Courts will be reluctant to overstep an employer's right to police its own workplace, unless it can be shown that an intrusion was uncalled for.

A space to ace in

Finding a third-space to work in is vital, experts say

Over the last five years, "co-operative learning" has become a buzz phrase in higher education, with most institutions scrambling to expand group study into nearly every classroom.

But as new study theories abound, what about the actual physical space where students study?

Although there is far less research in this area, many educators are strong proponents of finding a "third space" — aside from your couch, office or classroom — where students can devote nearly 100 percent of their attention to the task at hand.

"Just having the book or computer open does not mean that you're really engaged with the material."
LYNN BECK
UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC

The very act of creating the space can help to develop good habits.

"There's some real value in ritualizing getting into the study mode," says Lynn Beck, dean of education at University of the Pacific. "Having a specific space dedicated to that is key. One of the things we do know from research is that productivity really drops when we're multitasking."

Professor Joseph Murray at Bucknell University has studied how we study for over 10 years. He is a strong proponent of tailoring the study environment for each course. For instance, if you will be using a bluebook in your exam and will take the test along with a large class, that is precisely what you want to mimic: Study in a crowded library, writing longhand in a notebook.

"Research suggests that a trial run or a dress rehearsal significantly increases test results for students," says Murray. "And we know that the closer that dress-rehearsal matches the actual physical attributes of the test, the better students tend to do on it." METRO

Canucks plow ahead in first game after all-star weekend

Mikael Samuelsson and Christian Ehrhoff scored power-play goals to lead the Vancouver Canucks over the Dallas Stars 4-1 last night. Vancouver also got a short-handed goal from Ryan Kesler and Alex Burrows found the back of the net. Daniel Sedin added two assists. Wearing a full face shield to protect a broken bone around his eye, Vancouver centre Cody Hodgson made his big-league debut. Hodgson, the Canucks' first-round choice in 2008, registered two shots on goal and three hits in 9:36 of ice time. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JOHN GRIGG
THE HOCKEY NEWS

HARD-LUCK HODGSON FINALLY GETS HIS SHOT

It's been a long time coming for Cody Hodgson.

The 20-year-old was the 10th pick of the 2008 draft and considered a can't-miss kid. He was The Hockey News' 2009 Future Watch cover boy and our No. 2-rated NHL prospect. He was named the 2009 Canadian major junior player of the year and was twice a standout for Canada at the world juniors.

But lately the can't-miss kid hasn't exactly been hitting the mark.

Health issues have played a role there. So has some controversy.

First and foremost was a back injury sustained in July 2009. Originally diagnosed as a disc injury, it was found to be a torn muscle more than a year later. In the interim, the Canucks and the Hodgson camp were at odds concerning everything from treatment to how many medical opinions — and from whom — a teenage prospect should dare seek out.

The dispute even led to some harsh words in the media by Vancouver head coach Alain Vigneault. After cutting Hodgson before the 2009-10 campaign, Vigneault reacted to Hodgson questioning the Canucks medical staff by basically calling him an immature kid trying to deflect blame for his poor performance.

In the end, what basically was a lost season cost Hodgson in his training and development, and stalled what seemed an easy road to the NHL. Well out of sight, he fell somewhat out of mind.

The uncomfortably public frostiness between Hodgson and the Canucks seems to have been resolved — or at least set aside — but it will be interesting to see how Hodgson performs under Vigneault, and how the coach uses the skilled centre.

This season the hard-luck case suffered a cracked orbital bone during practice with the American Hockey League's Manitoba Moose — a teammate's errant stick clipped him. That was Dec. 8 and Hodgson, the Moose's leading scorer at the time, just recently returned, still wearing a full face mask.

A few contests and an AHL all-star game later, Hodgson is up with the big club.

Just exactly how he'll be utilized or even how long he'll be up will likely be based on day-to-day decisions for now. But fourth-line duty or not to begin with, Canucks fans shouldn't forget how excited they were about Hodgson's future just 18 months ago. Here's betting it won't take anywhere near 18 months to get even more excited about his present.

Keys for the situation

Up for grabs with the Boss is the dealer-installed TracKey system.

The black key is for street driving, while the red key is used for days at the track. The latter provides a more aggressive tune, complete with a raggedy competition idle as well as "launch control."

Ford does not recommend red-key use on the street as the throttle response is hair-trigger.

Visual cues

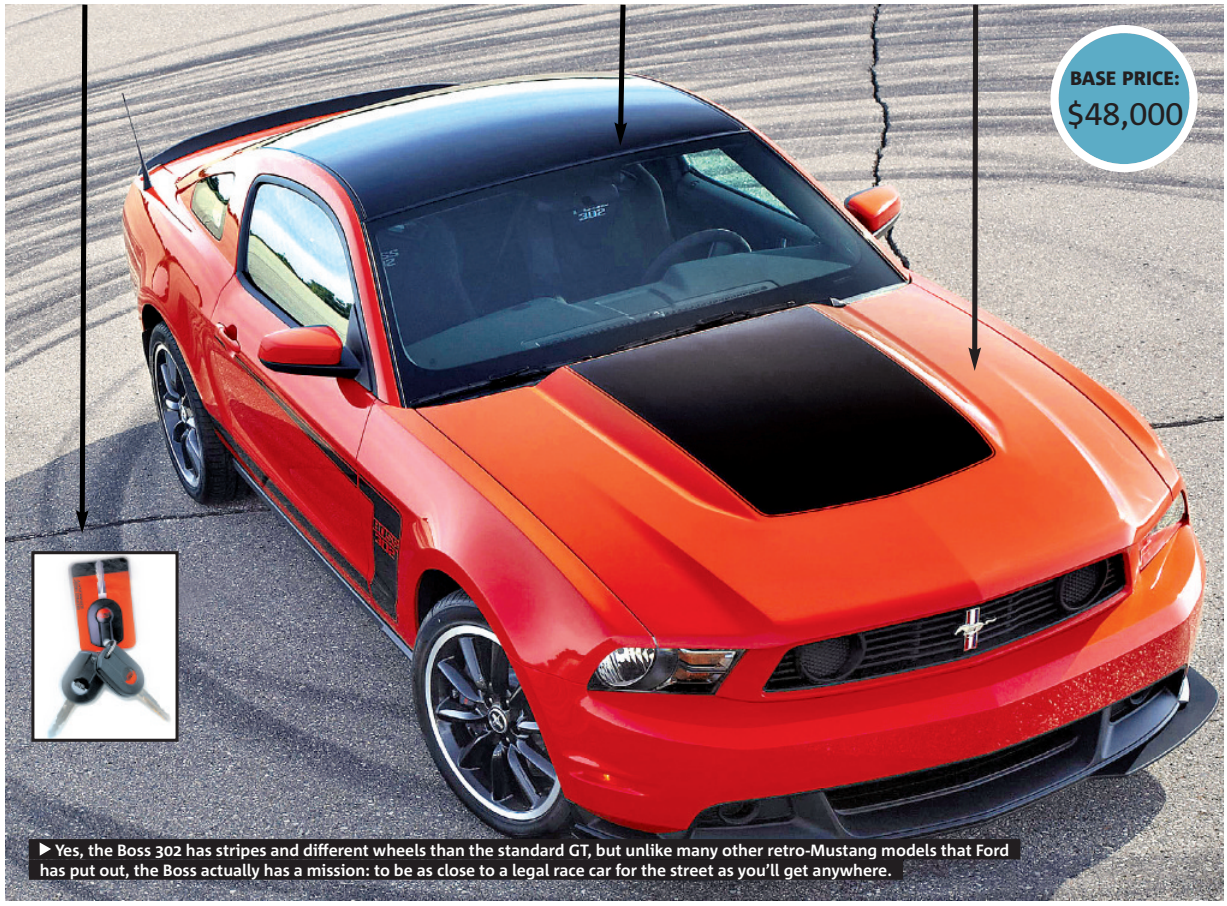
The Boss wears the historic "C-stripe" along each side, a blacked-out hood scoop and roof and front and rear spoilers.

Inside, there's a special Boss steering wheel, suede seat inserts, or optional Recaro-brand bucket seats that are identical to those installed on the current Mustang GT500.

High-revving horsepower

Using the 5.0-litre V8-powered Mustang GT as the starting point, the Boss gets a less-restrictive intake system and revised camshafts as its main tweaks.

Output is increased to 444 horsepower from the GT's 412, but peak torque is down 10 pound-feet from the GT's 390. This is not an uncommon trade-off for additional high-revving horsepower. The engine is hooked to a close-ratio six-speed manual transmission along with a heavier duty clutch.



BASE PRICE: $48,000

▶ Yes, the Boss 302 has stripes and different wheels than the standard GT, but unlike many other retro-Mustang models that Ford has put out, the Boss actually has a mission: to be as close to a legal race car for the street as you'll get anywhere.

This Boss can do the road or the track

Why is the Boss 302 back?

Aside from pressing all the right nostalgia hot buttons and providing enthusiasts with a high-performance car that's good for the road or the track, the real reason might be the engine.

Without a "302" there could never be a Boss 302 in the first place.

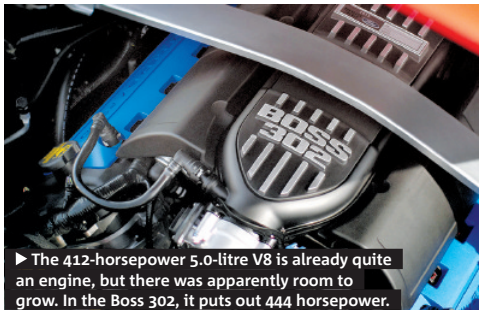
The new Boss wasn't possible until the 2011 model year when the 412-horsepower 5.0-litre V8 (302 cubic inches) replaced the 4.6 in the GT model. Thus the road was paved for the revival of the Boss 302.

But just what kind of nostalgia are we talking about, here?

This legendary race-bred model helped set the Sports Car Club of America's Trans Am racing series on fire in 1969 and '70, providing spirited competition for the rest of the Ponycar pack from General Motors, Chrysler, and American Motors.

Fast forward four decades. In early 2011, two versions of the new Boss 302 will arrive to do the original proud: a fully dressed dual-purpose street/track edition; and a track-specific (but not track only) "Laguna Seca Package" model.

▶ The already excellent Mustang interior is highlighted with extra instrumentation and grippy seats to keep drivers planted behind the wheel during acrobatics on track days.



▶ The 412-horsepower 5.0-litre V8 is already quite an engine, but there was apparently room to grow. In the Boss 302, it puts out 444 horsepower.

19

Aiding traction on the Boss are Pirelli tires mounted on 19-inch-diameter wheels that are wider by half an inch in the back to accommodate the wider rubber. Ford claims that skid-pad grip with this combo exceeds 1.0 g of lateral acceleration, which is in supercar territory.

Boss 302

What you should know about the 2012 Ford Mustang Boss 302:

- Type: Two-door hardtop.
- Engine (hp): 5.0-litre DOHC V8 (444).
- Transmission: Six-speed manual.
- Stats: L/100 km (city/hwy) 12.0/7.5 (est.).

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 If you have to change plans last minute and let someone down today, so be it. If you don't make a big deal of it, chances are he or she won't, either.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Your enthusiasm for a work project may be undiminished, but you are putting in rather a lot of time and energy for so little in return. It may not yet be time to make a change, but start thinking about it anyway.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 There are many things going right in your life, so why make a fuss about the one little thing that is going wrong? Your mind creates your reality, so the less attention you give it, the less it will matter.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 If you've been spending money like it is going out of fashion, it might be wise to curb your extravagance over the next few days. Those shiny things in shop windows may look lovely, but you can't have them all.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Where your work is concerned, you need to focus on quality rather than quantity. That may mean having to cut back on some of your less important commitments. Do less but do it better.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may be feeling on top of the world, physically, at the moment but there is still a danger you might take on too much. Focus your energy on what matters the most to you.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 It's not often you lose your sense of balance, but the approaching new moon is having a strange effect on your emotions. Don't be surprised to find yourself happy one moment, and even happier the next.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Family members may be difficult to get along with right now, but there's no point making an issue of it. Pretend that everything is okay with the world. They won't argue that.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 A sudden lack of cash could force you to cut back on social plans, but that's not so bad. If you watch what you spend today, you'll have enough to go wild tomorrow.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Someone who has helped you in the past won't be there for you today and you will feel the sense of loss. It will also make you realize you've been relying on him or her far too much.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You may be on a high right now, but not everyone is as fortunate. Make allowances for those who seem unable to find joy. In fact, make it your mission to cheer them up.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 If you're smart, you won't believe everything you hear today because there are tall stories being told. Others may not be trying to mislead you but someone has mislead them. ● SALLY BROMPTON
